Country House

No.3 : DAMASKS

Undeniably grand, true woven jacquard damasks in silk and linen have dressed the finest country houses for centuries. What we now think of as damask is more generally tone-on-tone repeated pattern of scrolling foliage, often printed as well as woven.

'BEAUFORT' BY CLAREMONT

In this hallway of a house decorated by Ben Pentreath, a pair of Queen Anne wing chairs upholstered in a rich damask-embossed bottle-green 'Beaufort' mohair velvet from Claremont stand out jewel-like against the white-painted panelling on the walls.

'MARINELLA' BY WATTS OF WESTMINSTER

Mike Fisher of Studio Indigo chose this authentic, large-scale silk damask in celeste blue from Watts of Westminster for the exquisite upholstery and dramatic curtains of this canopied bed at Ven, his own 18th-century country house in Somerset.
